Description of Variables

School Name: Name of school.

School Number: Identification code of school.

Total Students: The number of students in either grade 3 or grade 6 who took the EQAO test.

Pass Rate: The percentage of all students (EQAO Method 1) who scored at Level 3 or Level 4 on EQAO tests. Results are averages over three assessments, reading, writing and mathematics, and over three school years, 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08.

Adjusted Pass Rate: The adjusted pass rate is the difference between the school's pass rate and the provincial average pass rate. A positive value indicates the school has a higher pass rate than the provincial average; a negative value indicates the opposite.

Predicted Adjusted Pass Rate: The pass rate that a given school would be expected to attain given the performance of other schools in similar socio-economic environments minus the provincial average pass rate.

Percentile: The percentile is the value-added measure of schools taking into account the socio-economic environment from which they draw their students. It is calculated in several steps. First, the census-based socio-economic variables are used to calculate the school's predicted pass rate. Second, the predicted pass rate is subtracted from the actual pass rate to obtain a value-added measure. This value-added measure is positive if the school performs better than predicted and negative if the school performs worse than predicted. Finally, these value-added measures are expressed as percentiles. A percentile value of 90 indicates that this school's value-added is higher than 90 percent of other schools with comparable socio-economic characteristics. A value of 10 indicates that this school's value-added is better than only 10 percent of other schools with similar socio-economic environments, or, equivalently, that 90 percent of schools with comparable social and economic characteristics score better than this school.

The percentile is a performance measure fully adjusted for observable social and economic characteristics and variation in the average score on assessments. Percentiles go from 0 to 100. Schools that score exactly as predicted get a percentile of 50.

While a school's percentile is a better indicator of its capacity to add value through teaching because it takes into account the socio-economic pool from which the school's students are drawn, it is not a perfect substitute for the absolute performance measure, the pass rate. Both measures carry important information. A school with a high percentile measure, meaning that it does well given the socio-economic conditions in which it operates, may at the same time exhibit poor performance on the absolute measure, that is, have a low pass rate. Correspondingly, a school that performs poorly according to the percentile indicator, meaning that it should do better given its socio-economic environment, can have a high pass rate.

A note on missing values for some schools:

Some schools' performance indicators are missing, for two reasons. First, the results in a grade in a year at a school are suppressed for privacy reasons when there are less than 15 students in the grade. Second, and more importantly, the three-year-average indicators for a given school and grade are shown only if all assessments are available and for all three years. Johnson (2005) explains why it is important to compare schools using more than one year of results. Some high schools appear in the list without performance indicators and do not influence the results for other schools.

The schools are organized by school boards in alphabetical order and then by schools in alphabetical order within each school board.
